CONSEIL DE L'EUROPE

What an exciting project we are embarking on!

It aims at enhancing the promotion and visibility of the Youth programme in South Eastern Europe (Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Montenegro and Serbia) and Caucasus (Georgia).

The overall objective of the project is to allow young people to acquire knowledge, skills and competencies, focusing on training of multipliers and on the development of networks and partnerships.

The proposal combines co-operation, training and information aspects, through the implementation of different actions: information seminars, setting-up of specialized info-points, website and newsletters, youth ambassadors groups, trainings of peer educators (multipliers), job shadowing, trainings on EVS, itinerant crossing youth fair and the setting-up of 4 different networks of stakeholders working in the field of youth in SEE and in Georgia.

The project objectives

This project aims at strengthening and fostering the involvement of the Local Democracy Agencies in the field of youth; the overall objective being to allow young people to acquire knowledge, skills and competencies through the promotion of the Youth Programme in South Eastern Europe and Caucasus. We will focus on training of multipliers and on the development of networks and partnerships.

To achieve all this we decided on a set of specific objectives:

- To promote the Youth Programme as a tool for enhancing youth participation and to developing European citizenship in South Eastern European countries (Bosnia, Herzegovina, Croatia, Macedonia, Serbia and Montenegro) as well as in the Caucasus (Georgia)
- To provide capacity building to young people and youth workers through trainings of multipliers
- To develop and consolidate networks and partnerships, in order to create a long-lasting "platform" in South Eastern Europe and Caucasus in the field of youth
- To exchange best practices in the field of youth among partners

Presentation of the Project Leader: The Association of the Local Development Agencies

Our Past.

When the Association of Local Democracy Agencies (ALDA) was established in 1999, it brought together a network of Local Democracy Agencies (LDAs) in existence since 1993. The LDAs were set up by the Council of Europe's Congress of Local and Regional Authorities of Europe (Congress) in the framework of the Stability Pact for South Eastern Europe. They were originally conceived to provide concrete assistance to war-ravaged municipalities in the former Yugoslavia through partnerships with counterparts in Western Europe. When the war in the Balkans ended, ALDA's focus shifted from crisis management to strengthening local democracy, with an emphasis on promoting tolerant and trust-based relationships within communities. From the beginning, however, the method has been to establish partnerships between local and regional authorities and NGOs in the former Yugoslavia and their counterparts elsewhere in Europe.

Our present.

In the decade since its founding, ALDA has grown from a small pilot programme to a stakeholder in promoting a stable, democratic South-Eastern Europe. As the network coordinator, ALDA facilitates collaborations among 12 Local Democracy Agencies and over 130 members and 150 partners, towns, regions and NGOs from more than 25 countries across the whole of Europe.

In addition to coordinating LDA activities, ALDA contributes to their fundraising, provides the LDAs with technical and administrative support, trains staff, maintains an information and publication centre, and represents members in dealing with international institutions and sponsors - especially the Council of Europe. Through a formal working agreement with the Council, the LDAs share their expertise in implementing programmes, gather and disseminate information locally, and organise site visits. Other international organisations ALDA works closely with include the National Association of Local Authorities in South Eastern Europe (NALAS), the Organisation for

Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE), the European Union (EU), and the United Nations (UN) - particularly the High Commissioner for Refugees. Despite this high level of international involvement, ALDA remains committed to its original mandate to focus on supporting democracy on a local level.

As the methodology of the LDAs proved to be very successful in the Balkans, in 2005, ALDA decided to extend its geographical coverage to other regions, in particular the Southern Caucasus. In September 2006, ALDA opened its 12th LDA in Kutaisi (Georgia). This new Agency will focus its activities mainly on training for local authorities and civil society, local economic development, and youth empowerment.

Our Future.

ALDA's expertise and activities will not be limited to the countries of the former Yugoslavia and Georgia. In 2005, ALDA already implemented a pilot project in Belarus, and in 2006-2007 a more significant project will follow to strengthen civil society groups. After a fact-finding mission in autumn 2005, ALDA decided, in addition, to work on a pilot project to establish a new LDA in Shkodra (Albania). It will be another mayor challenge for ALDA in the years to come to open a 2nd Agency outside the countries of the former Yugoslavia.

With its long experience in South East Europe and the diversity of its activities in the field, ALDA plays an important advisory role in the EU enlargement process, and makes an ideal partner for enlargement activities in South East Europe. Indeed, the future strategy of ALDA is to support the stabilisation and accession process all over Europe. In the meantime, ALDA recognizes the important effects that neighbouring countries' accession to the EU will have on the whole of South East Europe and looks forward to partnering with organisations across the continent to ensure a smooth, stable transition that benefits all countries in the region. Having already joined the Council of Europe, the Balkan states are expected to join the EU themselves in coming years, and ALDA will be there to support them. As the Balkans and the Caucasus region become increasingly involved in continent-wide networks, ALDA is growing to promote tolerant and effective local governance across Europe.

Notes to the maps:

- The 11 LDAs in the Balkans cover most of the former Yugoslavia
- The 12th LDA in Kutaisi is the first in the Southern Caucasus, outside South-East Europe
- ALDA is a truly European network: the 25 countries in orange indicate where partners and members are located

ALBANIA:

Civil Society Development Center (CSDC) Shkodra

The organization.

Civil Society Development Center CSDC Shkodra which is a part of National Network of CSDC in Albania started work in April 2004. The British Ambassador in Albania, representing the donor, inaugurated the CSDC in Shkodra. As part of the sustainability strategy the initial five centers were registered in May 2004 as centers according to the Albanian non-profit organization law. A series of training courses and workshops offered in the CSDCs strengthen the skills of the Albanian not-for-profit organizations to help them successfully and economically communicate their messages to the media, government, donors and the public.

The community.

Shkodra is one of the 12 prefecture centers of Albania. This prefecture consists of three districts: Shkodra District, Malesia e Madhe District and Puka District. Shkodra District consists of two municipalities and 15 communes. The City of Shkodra is the administrative, business and cultural center of the District of Shkodra.

Municipal Council elects the Chairman of Municipality Council, Deputy chairman and the Secretary of Municipal Council. This organ is made up of 45 counselors of different political subjects based on the percentage of the votes won in the local elections. The beginnings of the institution of the Shkodra municipality may be traced back to the year 1865. On the 26th of July 1992, for the first time, free multilateral elections were held for the local government bodies. The passing of Law No. 7275 "The Law on the Functions and the Organization of Local Governments" made possible for the first time the establishment of local government political autonomy.

BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA :

The Local Development Agencies of Mostar Prijedor Zavidovici

LDA Mostar.

LDA Mostar is fully part of the network coordinated by the Association of LDAs. LDA Mostar is based on an European partnership of cities and regions for the promotion of the democratization process at the local level and the respect of human rights. LDA Prijedor.

The main objectives of the Local Democracy Agency of Prijedor are the promotion and the support to:

- Dialog among the ethnic components as the necessary condition for the reconciliation in the community to reach through an important process of elaboration of the conflict. Reconciliation is one of the key word to allow the community of Prijedor to be united and strong enough to reorganize a real process of local development.
- Reconstruction of the local capacities and local development as model to give an answer to the economic crises of an area where most of the economic frameworks of the past period are obsolete and out of any market and where the risk is to be only the cheap labor and deregulated market of the West economy. A local development that is endogenous, based on the local resources and with starting point the logic of the needs of the community:

Development of relations between Prijedor and the European communities aware that the integration of the Balkan area in Europe should be a short time objective to give a significant contribution for the solution of its political but also economic problems and that the contribution to this process of the relations among the local communities of both the "small" and the "big" Europe could be decisive.

At the base of the project, there is the spontaneous initiative of a group of pacifists that in 1992, during the war in Bosnia and Herzegovina, started human aid and assistance operations in favour of the civil population, and at the same time hosting in Italy refugees and despalced people.

Actually LDA of Zavidovici is engaged in Bosnia-Herzegovina, in Zavidovici area (Zenica-Doboj Canton), since 1993, in different sectors of intervention, trying to encourage a reconstruction of the social context effected by the 1992-95 conflict and by the post-conflict conditions, directly involving the local civil society and authorities and functioning as link between them and its international partners, above all Italian ones. All our programmes aim to contribute to both social and economic recovery of Eastern Croatia and to capacity building of its human resources.

Through years we have worked with local authorities, elected representatives and civil sector in this region in order to make them capable to activate their local resources, use pre accession and other funds that are available for Croatia and develop their communities.

In the frame of promotion of European values and standards we put focus on youth participation and education as well as on information campaigns in less privileged areas of Eastern Croatia. Another relevant aspect of our work is local economic development with special focus on fostering of development of rural areas and setting up of Centre for Sustainable Rural Development.

Municipalities of Monfalcone and Vicenza and Eurodesk Italy

Municipality of Monfalcone. Monfalcone is an industrial city which is turning into an urban centre based on trade and services. It is known as "the city of cruise ships" due to the Fincantieri shipyard, one of the largest in Europe, specialised in the building of cruise ships. With a population of 50.000 inhabitants, within the enlarged municipality, the town, located in the Northeast Italy in the autonomous region of Friuli Venezia Giulia, is the northernmost seaport in the Adriatic and it is now ready to reinvent its façade, starting from the very origins. The main objective of the municipality is to express Monfalcone's personality through the remodelling of the urban plant. New projects are being promoted in order to invite not only the tourists, but the citizens themselves to discover and explore a modern town which stands firm on its roots. There are cultural plans to be implemented like the open museum on the great war, that reminds the people of Monfalcone of the traces left by history in its trenches, the new museum of palaeontology. Other current focuses are on restoring of the ancient Roman thermal baths and the sustainable development of sea, coast and sailing resources.

Thanks to its self confidence and the experience acquired in the field of EU funding and opportunities, the city has been developing an interest in international activities in the past few years. Projects range from the exchange of best practice in the field of public administration,

NORTHERN IRELAND:

International School for Peace Studies

The International School for Peace Studies (I.S.P.S.) is dedicated to the resolving of differences and conflict transformation through exclusively peaceful means, and rejects all forms of violence or intimidation as a means of creating change. The International School for Peace Studies has developed a unique and completely original experiential learning programme called "The Messines Experience".

The programme uses the events of The Great War (1914 – 18) to engage participants in learning about their shared history, cultural heritage, peace and reconciliation, and the futility of war. Various levels of accreditation are available, and all qualifications are nationally recognised. The Messines Experience represents an opportunity to inform and inspire a new generation of citizens in Europe and beyond by explaining the continuing relevance of this period of history and exploring how the events of 1914-18 shaped so much of the society in which we live today.

The programme also promotes our belief in the ineffectiveness of engaging in aggressive behaviour as a means of creating change, and the detrimental consequences that arise when we choose conflict over compromise. In doing so, we believe that differing communities and different participants from all over the world can be brought closer together by way of "Reconciliation Through Remembrance".

WALES:

Powys County Council

Powys is an extensive, largely upland and extremely rural county covering 2000 square miles, that is about a quarter of the area of Wales. With only 1 person in every 10 acres (4 hectares) it is one of the most sparsely populated local authority areas in England and Wales.

The county has tremendous landscape assets, from the dramatic mountains of the Brecon Beacons National Park and the rolling hills of Radnor Forest to the Berwyn Mountains in the north, and some of Britain's most spectacular river valleys - the Severn, Wye and Usk - sweeping through its glorious scenery.

The economy is based on agriculture and tourism, with high self-employment and small businesses predominating, and an important contribution to employment opportunities from the public sector.
