

The BRIGHT project & the Croatian context: examples and realities of women's inclusion in the labour market in the 3rd sector

Registration HERE

Day: 24 February 2022

Times: 13:30 - 15:00

Context:

Local institutions that face the challenge of inclusion and social cohesion of mobile citizens, need new and innovative strategies and instruments to guarantee access to fair, adequate, and sensitive public services. The way to reach underrepresented groups is a joint effort of authorities, social services, trade unions, citizens, and employers in order to design innovative and inclusive welfare solutions.

Objective:

In occasion of the International women's day on the 8th of March, the BRIGHT project is organizing a dissemination and networking event that can lead local participants to discuss and exchange about participatory governance systems that enable the participation of mobile women in decision-making processes.

*The panel will bring together various stakeholders who will be engage in a discussion about the local contexts, facing the challenges of mobile women inclusion and about the adoption of strategies to foster unrepresentative women's inclusion employed in agriculture and care services sectors in Croatia and in the other EU Member States.

Expected results:

The panel is expected to tackle the difficulties in assuring the participation of mobile women in decision-making processes and how to enhance the capacity of local institutions to adopt participatory governance systems.
